

Engineered Products: Brazed Assemblies

From years of experience, EPC knows and wishes to emphasize the advantages that are available to firms who use our engineering services. This is especially true on the production of brazed assemblies. Before the job gets on your board, call in an EPC sales engineer. His specialized experience and close-working alliance with the EPC staff might easily save many hours of time and expense. Care in inspection is a sincere service promise. Pressure testing is available.

