

Engineered Products: Spun Parts

Special spun parts can be combined with bending and extruding operations. Important cost-saving advantages are offered in the production of spun parts in which such steps as deep drawing, swaging, solder joints, machining and others are eliminated.

